PRES. WILSON WANTS A THIRD TERM AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—President Wilson is a third-term candidate.

This was the interpretation placed by both Democratic and Republican political observers here tonight on the day's three highly important and significant developments in connection with the Democratic nomination.

These developments were the interview with the President published in the New York World this morning; William G. McAdoo's announcement that he will not allow his name to be presented at the San Francisco convention; and the formal statement of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Joseph B. Moore that the McAdoo supporters will back Senator Carter Glass of Virginia.

Representative Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming, Republican floor leader of the House, openly declared the President's interview indicates he has a third term in mind. Other Republican leaders, including some of the senators in Washington, hold the same view, but declined to be quoted.

Stress is laid on the circumstances under which the President's interview was given out, which was sufficiently sensational to insure wide publicity: the contents of the President's statement; and the timing of the three developments.

Republicans look on the interview as pure political propaganda. Senator Fall of New Mexico complained against the use of the high office of president to gain publicity.

Democratic senators, as well, remarked on the prominence given in the interview to the "samaritan" of the President's "complete restoration to health." The interviewer "pays up" the President's physical condition, emphasizing that he has gained more than twenty pounds during the last two months.

Although Mr. Wilson "has paid in full," the interview declares, his "time" is "longer" than ever. "The interview," it says, "has neither daunted the spirit nor impaired in the slightest degree the splendid intellect of Woodrow Wilson." For the first time he comments again on the President's "old-time despatching, method and keenness of intellect and appointment." No effect is spared to let it be known that there has been "no impairment of the efficient mental machine."

Hey, Diogenes! Call Off Hunt; Here Are Two Honest Men!

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 18.—Robert E. Moore, who was a delegate to the Republican national convention from the twelfth (St. Louis) district in a statement today, asserted he had returned the $2500 of Lowden funds he received. The return was made through an "intermediary" in Chicago last Thursday, said Moore. He refused to name the intermediary. Nat Goldstein, delegate from the eleventh district, last night asserted the $2500 of Lowden money given him had been returned. Both men were named in the Senate investigation of campaign funds.

50 Year Term for Ex- Senator Account of Girl

OAKLAND, Cal., June 18.—For being a believer in "free love" and practicing his belief, Harry Hearn, a former soldier, will spend half a century in San Quentin penitentiary. Hearn was found guilty recently on a statutory charge, and sentenced to "not more" than fifty years by Judge James G. Quinn of the superior court at Alameda county, in which Oakland is located. The girl witness in this case is 19-year-old Beatrice Wilson. It was learned in court that Hearn had established domestic relations as man and wife with the girl, two weeks before she reached the age of 16. At the trial the Wilson girl was placed on the witness stand and reluctantly testified against Hearn. She declared her great affection for him and both pleaded to be permitted to marry. Their relations were approved by Probation Officer Leonard Gumpson on the ground that such marriages were not outlawed. The couple's defense was that they loved one another. The testimony showed the girl was extremely unhappy at home and left it to go with Hearn while dependent. They had lived together several weeks before taken into custody.

Ft. Bliss Flyer Makes 3000 Foot Drop in Parachute

Dropping from an airplane at a height of 3000 feet, Lieutenant H. A. Rivers of the 104th Aero Squadron, Fort Bliss, thrust a large crowd of soldiers and civilian spectators last Saturday night at the Fort Bliss aviation field. Lieutenant Rivers dropped in an Army parachute. The landing was made safely.

The machine from which the free dropper was piloted by Lieutenant Lloyd Harvey, commander of the squadron. Lieutenant Rivers is a graduate of the Kelly Field school. During his training course there he narrowly escaped death when a parachute with which he was about to drop was found to be defective. The pilot noticed the defect just as Rivers was stepping over to the side of the plane, reaching over and grabbing him, he saved the lieutenant from almost certain death.

The drop probably will be repeated Monday night, Fort Bliss officers stated.

Lieutenant Rivers, since his return from the Kelly Field school, has been instructing aviation officers at Fort Bliss in parachute work.

Just One More Pardon.

Governor Laramie has issued a pardon to William Hatcher, who was convicted in Dona Ana county in December, 1918, for burglary of a railroad car. Hatcher was sentenced to fifteen years and would have served five years next December. Governor Laramie gave as a reason for the pardon that the sentence was too long for the offense and that the convict had served sufficient time.

GALLON OF OIL TO EACH BAILING AT THE FLORIDA WELL

Joe Clark, Little Bavel and Don Rainey returned from the Florida well yesterday and said that every time the boiler was emptied it contained one gallon of oil.

Over 100 rounded automobiles were at the well site.

Many people were filling tin cans with oil and filling bottles for souvenirs.

The black shale as it became dry when ignited with a match burned brilliantly.

The well is now down 1500 feet and the casing is 7 1/2 inches in diameter.

But, like all home town affairs, the company is shy money. The well has been drilled 450 feet without any substantial casing, and they will be compelled to stop drilling until more casing is available.

But that John Clark has struck oil is beyond question.

McGee Well Passes the Saturated Sand at 2500 Ft.

There is no doubt that oil will be found in the Turcoman field, in the opinion of F. H. Donnell in the Santa Fe New Mexican. McGee, drilling the deep test ten miles southwest of Turcoman, he said, holds the same view.

Donnell's confidence rests on something probably not generally known—the McGee well struck oil saturated sand at 2500 feet, in the Permian formation, but at a point where the formation was pierced then by an uplift of lower formations, and Donnell said if the saturated sand was tapped at another point where it had not been pierced probably it would produce oil.

Donnell predicted that one of the holes now being drilled in the field sooner or later would strike the same sand and bring in a well.

The McGee well was started for the purpose of tapping the Permian formation, in the hope that big paying sand would be found, and the discovery of the saturated oil failed to stop the drilling. It was expected that the Permian sand would be reached at between 2500 and 3000 feet, but the bit didn't reach the uppermost line of the Permian until it had plunged downward 4000 feet. The hole was slightly below that depth at the last report received by Donnell.

Drilling was interrupted by water at that depth, but the water was "raised off." This was done by lowering wheat and grain into the hole and forcing it under the casing. The grain of course swelled and cut off the water.

Drilling at the well has been going ahead steadily, Donnell said, and the driller now is underreaming below 4000 feet.

Soldiers Offer to Sell Stolen Goods; Arrested

With the arrest of three soldiers Saturday morning when they are alleged to have attempted to sell three high-powered machine guns, stolen from a Fort Bliss warehouse, government agents believe they have taken an important step in stamping out a conspiracy to steal military supplies from Fort Bliss.

The magnitude of the conflict type, were offered to H. C. Camp of the City Service Company for a small sum. He reported the case to officials and the arrests followed.

Government officials say that the machine guns had been hidden for some time. The theft occurred several weeks ago.

Privates E. W. Williams, G. A. Cox and S. C. Duck of the Motor Transport Corps were the men arrested. They were assigned before United States Commissioner A. J. W. Schmidt Saturday on a charge of conspiracy to sell machine guns which were the property of the United States. They were held in a hearing on June 20 at 10 a. m. on bonds of $1000 each, which were not furnished.

100 degrees hot was the record of the thermometer here this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and every one in Columbus agreed the instrument was absolutely correct. Shortly thereafter steep breezes from the southwest forced the thermometer of the tower down.

HATS OFF TO DEMING BALL TEAM; TRIM COLUMBUS AGAIN

For the second time within two weeks Deming has defeated Columbus.

Yesterday the Columbus team was defeated in the county seat in two rubber base Army tracks owned by Colonel W. O. Johnson and umpired by 100 fans who cheered them on and tackled the Deming pitcher for a return game.

That's all they did do, however, for that left-handed pitcher in a few innings was able to shut anything and everything at them, even having them defeat little drops, but the Columbus bats were so handled with what he handled them that if an elephant had been delivered to them at the plate they couldn't even have touched it.

Several of the players had been overcast and they said the Argentine words was nothing like the slougher.

At first it was serious, then laughable, and finally it was criminal the way these Deming boys handled the ball.

But the Columbus team is undaunted and will keep on trying.

Captain McKenny is trying to get Doc White to give them instructions, and if Doc likes them up and in, he'll let them try to have a chance.

The score? The Daily Courier is ashamed to mention it—something down to 5. "Was enough, anyway."

Gov. Cox Leading the Democratic Field at S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 19.—Everybody should keep an eye on "Jimmy" Cox, the fighting governor of Ohio. And the other should be allowed to rest on Thomas Riley Marshall, the distinguished Hoosier statesman now serving his second term as vice president of the United States.

Cox is leading the field of the unopposed candidates as the most likely to be selected to head the Democratic presidential ticket. Marshall is regarded by all as the most available and the most likely "dark horse." If it should become necessary to enter that stable to pick the nominee.

Cox became a formidable factor in the race today as a result of the flat refusal of William Gibbs McAdoo to permit his name to go before the convention. Therefore he had been regarded as a possible candidate for second place, with McAdoo at the head of the ticket.

McAdoo's positive announcement, however, served to boost Cox into first place and to make him the most talked of man for the nomination. Cox lost Palmer, Edwards and Owen in all the discussion among leading Democrats assembled here for the convention.

"Galloping Dominions" Now Name for Elusive Dice

STRENGTHPORT, La., June 17.—It was seven against four, but the four had the edge on the seven men who were caught playing with the galloping dominions. "Ah, gentlemen, we wasn't shooting in dice," one said. But the marshal of "de law" won.

Mexico President Gives New Assurances of Peace

MEXICO CITY, June 21.—An extraordinary session of both houses of congress will begin Monday. Today they met for organization purposes.

Mexican presidential laws, based on Article 21 of the constitution, insulating deposits of oil, which article will be interpreted liberally, will not be retroactive, declared Adolfo de la Huerta, provisional president, to foreign correspondents yesterday.

Senor de la Huerta spoke freely in discussing problems before the country, being host at a luncheon given to the newspaper men.

The policy of friendship toward foreign nations, especially the United States, together with the assumption of all legally contracted debts of the Mexican republic, is a part of the provisional president's program.

During the two hours the president talked with the correspondents he answered a rapid fire of questions with amazing frankness. Once he had a sudden attack of illness and was forced to cease speaking for several minutes. This attack, which alarmed the guests, came when the provisional president was talking of the uprising against Carranza and had said orders had been given General Juan S. Torres, at Hermosillo, to arrest de la Huerta, but that when the general arrived in Sonora he refused to obey the orders.

The provisional president refused to leave the table because of his illness, and in a few minutes he resumed his narration of events. He did not throw any new light upon events attending the Sonora revolt, which spread to all parts of the republic and finally resulted in the flight and death of Carranza.

Asked specifically what he meant by "obeying legally constituted," the president replied laughingly: "Please do not confuse me with the former president (Victoriano Huerta) although our names are almost alike."

These conversations with foreign journalists are the first steps which have been taken in this direction.

"Mexico faces two problems at the present," he continued. "These are the economic and military problems. Mexico is more completely pacified now than during the time of Porfirio Diaz. Villa, whose status is that of a mere bandit, is not a military problem. Airplanes are being sent to locate Villa, who, pursued relentlessly, soon will be eliminated."

"The organization of the army, while difficult, will be accomplished without delay, under the leadership of P. Elias Calles, the war minister."

Asked regarding censorship of news dispatches, the president declared he had not been aware of the censorship and, turning to his chief of staff, Colonel Ramirez, he ordered that the censorship be abolished immediately. He explained the censorship probably was left over from the former administration.

With regard to the administration policy toward the banks, de la Huerta said every assistance and guarantee would be given private banking enterprise, but that the government would establish national bank with the sole privilege of issuing secured paper currency.

ROBERT MAITLAND AND MISS MARY JENSEN MARRIED SATURDAY

Miss Mary Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jensen of this city, was quietly married to Robert Maitland Maitland, Q. M. C., Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, by Judge Cole.

Mrs. Robert Maitland, as Mary Jensen, was a clerk under Chief Clerk O'Connell of the Justice department, and was noted for her efficiency and popularity, and it was here that her romance with Robert Maitland began.

Robert Maitland, an ex. G. M. ex, was popular with all the officers and then with whom he came in contact, and it was the day of days for him, for he received his honorable discharge from the U. S. A. in the morning.

Besides the immediate family at the wedding were Lieut. Col. James T. MacDonald and Mrs. MacDonald and Chief Clerk Phil O'Connell and Mrs. O'Connell.

The happy couple will remain in this city.

Yaqui River Farmers For Diversified Farming

[By Associated Press.]

SONORA, Ariz., June 21.—Farmers in the Yaqui river district of Sonora are going in heavily for diversified agriculture, planting large crops of wheat, rice and corn, whereas heretofore they devoted themselves almost exclusively to the production of garbanos, according to Americans who returned from that section.

This, it is claimed, does not mean that the garbanos crop will be materially decreased, but that the farmers will be sure of one crop that will make a profitable yield and be able to rotate crops on a scientific basis instead of exhausting the soil by the continual planting of the same crops.

Rice already has become an important item of export from the Yaqui country, and corn also has been extensively grown there. The growing of wheat, however, is still somewhat of an experiment.
